HUNDREDS SEEK MANIFOLD OPPORTUNITIES

The 1941 Caldron is planned to show the reader that Central is a school unusually rich in opportunity. To our understanding, opportunity does not knock; the Central student seeks his own opportunity here. He possesses a healthy curiosity of mind and is eager to take advantage of the vast and limitless opportunity he is offered.

Here are many opportunities—to be taught by experienced and trained teachers; to take high honors in scholarship, art, music, sports, clubs, and other organizations; and to develop personality and form friendships.

All these opportunities will be pictured in this volume. Included also are examples of those who have won honors and awards during their four years here by taking advantage of what Central has to offer. A representative number of the alumni are also pictured, living examples of those who have benefited by training and experiences at Central.

ABOUNDING IN DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL HIGH

The democratic ideals prevailing in Central allow the student to name his own choices from a wide selection. He is given the best of training in his classes and extra-curricular activities, which offer him boundless opportunities to learn his vocation and avocations thoroughly.

Democracy stands for freedom to make individual choices and decisions; one's life is what one makes it. This freedom may be used to its fullest extent; but whatever use is made of the opportunity received here, it is the student himself who makes the decision.

No one compels the student to excel in his studies or to serve his school! This book will show that the Centralite does seek opportunity and does display the true spirit of democracy by serving his school when he is not required to do so. Such is the strength of democracy over dictatorship, that one will serve of his own free will.

Hundreds enter the doors of the new Central to seek opportunity in a modern curriculum.

OFFICIALS

BOARD OF SCHOOL TRUSTEES

Our school runs smoothly and efficiently under the direction of our capable school board. In general, the duties of the school board are to determine the policies of the school city, appoint the superintendent, approve all matters pertaining to budget and school finances, and promote public relations.

This interested group, the "power behind the throne," sacrifices time and effort to help the schools provide the opportunities necessary for better students. They are an under-publicized group to whom we owe our deepest appreciation.

SUPERINTENDENT

Mr. Merle J. Abbett, superintendent of schools, believes that the opportunities at Central are varied and many. He points with pride to the vocational branch at Central which he plans to make the best in the state. Mr. Abbett's kindly advice and visits to our school are a source of inspiration to every Centralite.

PARENT-TEACHERS

The officers of the P-TA are: Left to right, seated, Miss Anna B. Lewis, dean; Mrs. John Stettler, vice-president; Mrs. Thomas C. DeHaven, secretary; Mrs. C. E. Simon, president; Mrs. Fred Ahlersmeyer, member of executive council. Standing, Mrs. M. D. Warner, treasurer; Mr. Fred H. Croninger, principal; and Mrs. W. Carlisle Duell, executive council member.

CENTRAL'S PRINCIPAL says • •

Do you want to know whether there is any opportunity, where to look for it, when to recognize it, and what to do about it? If you read the biographies of Franklin, Lincoln, Pasteur, Edison, Lindbergh, Beveridge, Jane Addams, and others, you will learn more about opportunity in the lives of these people than you can learn any place else.

You will learn that opportunity just does not come to anybody and everybody at any time. You will find it comes from hard work, studious preparation and a receptive mind. It comes to those who recognize it and recognition depends upon knowledge, skill, and service.

Opportunity comes only to those prepared for it and eligible to receive it. If Lincoln had not studied and worked and read law, he would never have had the opportunity to be elected president. If Pasteur had not worked hours, days, and years, he would never have had the opportunity to discover germs of disease which revolutionized medical theory and practice. If Edison had not spent years of time and many dollars of money and gone without lots of sleep, he would never have been ready when the electric light was waiting to be born.

The thing to do is to study and read and learn. Then opportunity will appear often, but it will not stop and wait for you to get ready. It will pass by hunting for someone who is ready.

FRED H. CRONINGER

Mr. Croninger, in a leisure hour at home, finds the technical game of chess engrossing.

CENTRAL'S DEAN says . .

America has set up a great public school system, growing out of the desire to give to youth the opportunity for self-development and growth, which will guarantee that he will become a law-abiding and happy citizen.

This program is expensive, but its success will lay the foundations upon which the future of America rests. It is the largest and most important business in the world. Men and women have consecrated their lives to it.

In Central there are offered numerous opportunities. We have courses of study planned to meet the needs of all students; activities to create and develop sound social convictions, and to enhance personality; programs to instruct and inspire; and teachings which emphasize the necessity of good character.

The value of all of these things depends upon the alertness of the individual to recognize his opportunities and to take advantage of them. The old adage that one may lead a horse to water but cannot make him drink is true enough.

Someone has said, "There is no royal road to knowledge." Knowledge must result from industry, from curiosity, from a willingness to learn. Central offers all that youth needs to develop him into a successful citizen if he is willing to make an effort himself.

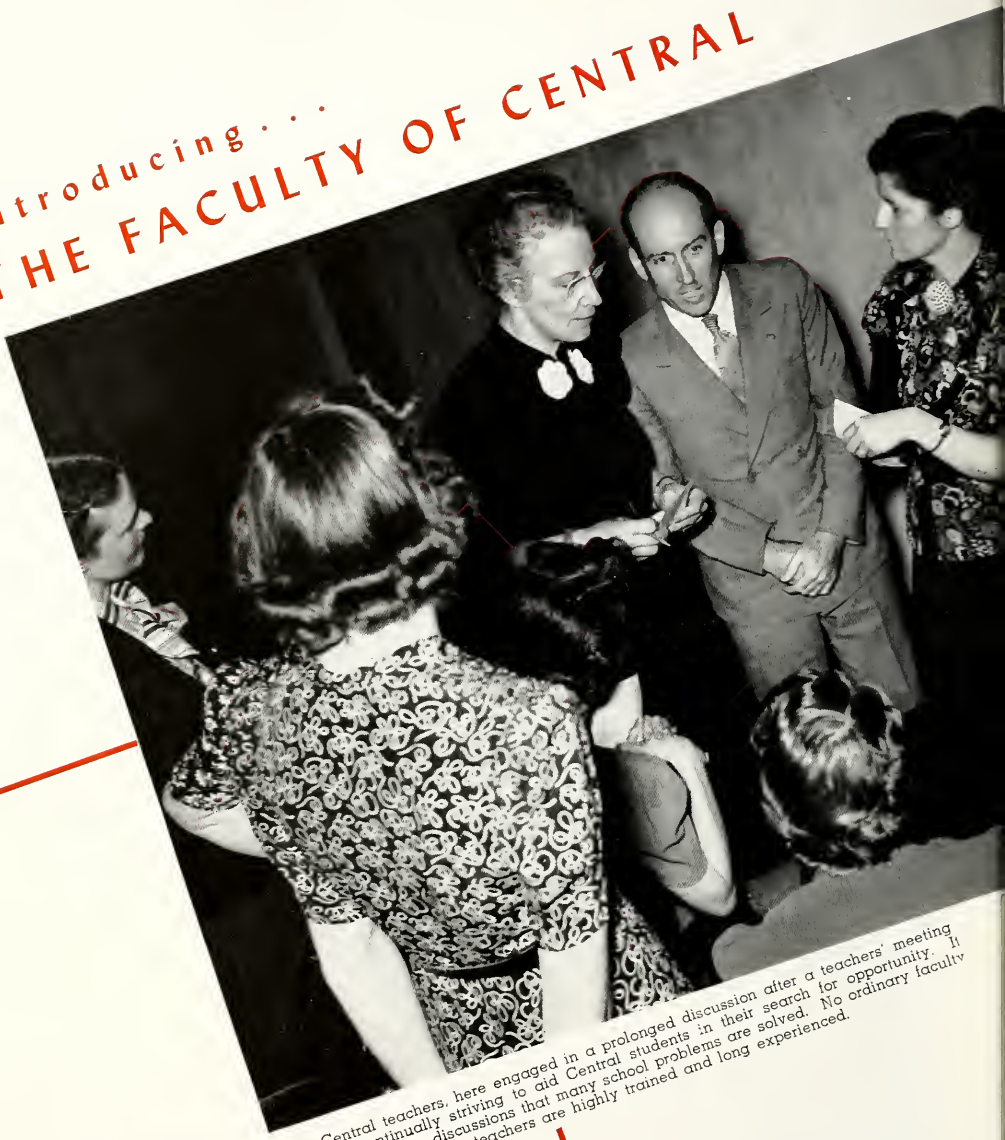
Introducing . . .

THE FACULTY OF CENTRAL



Central teachers, here engaged in a prolonged discussion after a teachers' meeting are continually striving to aid Central students in their search for opportunity. It is from these discussions that many school problems are solved. No ordinary faculty is Central's; these teachers are highly trained and long experienced.

Central students are indeed fortunate in having the kindly advice and interest of the visiting teacher, Mrs. Gretta Grisell.

The visiting teacher is particularly concerned with the students who have home problems or who need friendly counsel.

Our guidance department is opportunity indeed for bewildered students. Miss Leah F. Austin, head of the department, is closely assisted by Miss Emma Adams and Miss Mildred J. Brigham.

FOR CENTRAL PUPILS, SCORE ON SCORE

IN THE CLASSROOMS, TEACHERS AT WORK

Social science students are realizing the opportunity afforded them by studying under Miss Vera E. Pence. The students are reciting on economics.

Mr. Harry L. Veatch is teaching the boys how to operate a radio transmitter. His interest in radio comes from his knowledge of physics, the subject he teaches at Central.

Mrs. Helen Conley is teaching these girls the main steps in making a dress.

Mr. Meredith Aldred is teaching his students some of the technical points of botany. It is seldom one receives such excellent training.

Mr. R. K. Butler conducts a literature discussion in one of his sophomore classes. Apparently he has aroused some question about the topic of the hour.

In this photograph Mr. Paul Dailey is operating a jig-saw for the benefit of his classes, thereby giving his classes the opportunity to learn to better their woodwork.

First row: Collias, Putt, Winicker, Stuart, Simon, Lee, Barber, Masloob.
Top row: Bultemeier, Duell, McCombs, Hambrock, Lambroff, Doenges, Plescher, Ludwig.

MANY STUDENTS TRY BUT FEW SUCCEED

Each year a handful of graduates merit the distinction of having a scholastic average of 90 percent or over, and the class of 1941 is no exception to the rule. This year a total of 16 graduates have proved themselves to be top scholars, and they are rightfully deserving of all the praise that may fall their way.

Yes, April 10, 1941, was indeed an eventful day for the members of the four-year honor roll, for then it was that their averages were publicly announced. On the roll in 1939 there were 16; in 1940, 19; and in 1941, 16. This year there are 11 girls and five boys.

FOUR-YEAR HONOR ROLL

Samuel Stuart, Jr.	96.13
Clifford Simon	93.37
Mary Jane Masloob	93.15
George Lambroff	92.65
Marcelline Plescher	92.21
Suzanne Collias	91.54
Anna Winnicker	91.37
Ruth Duell	90.88
Sarah Jane Ludwig	90.73
Evelyn Doenges	90.58
Deloris Putt	90.28
Jeanne Lee	90.25
Ardell Hambrock	90.11
DeWald McCombs	90.00
Marcella Bultemeier	90.00
Bonnie Barber	90.00

Centralites were not surprised to find one April day that Sam Stuart had merited the title of Valedictorian of his graduating class. Clifford Simon, trailing Sam by a mere 2.75 percent, was labelled Salutatorian of the class of 1941. Stuart has led the honor roll with at least four A's nearly every time since his entrance in Central High School four years ago, and Simon, too, has had his share of the A's with plusses during his high school career.

PARENTS SIGN OUR GRADE CARDS GLADLY

By Ned Breininger

Students can and are making high scholastic records. The more than forty members of the Honor Society, which is now in its thirteenth year, have proved that this accomplishment can be attained. Membership in this club is gained by students who make three "A's" and no grade lower than "B–." The students who make these grades are the backbone of Central's scholastic work.

The initial meeting of the society was held October 17. A threatened poliomyelitis epidemic which caused the opening of school to be deferred was responsible for this late date. The election of officers was accomplished at this meeting. meeting. Those elected were: Mary Jane Masloob, president; Vera Schmidt, vice-president; and Ned Breininger, secretary-treasurer. Due to the resignation of Miss Mary Harrah, founder of the club, Miss Marian Ingham accepted the position as adviser; Mr. Butler again kindly accepted position as the other adviser.

At the second meeting in 1940 an interesting lesson on salesmanship was given by Mr. William F. Merchant, a retired business man of this district.

Entertainment for the Christmas meeting of this society was afforded by Martha Jeanne Exner and the initiation of Miss Ingham by Elinor Felts. Later Miss Ingham gave a humorous and excellent reading of "A Christmas Play." As a Christmas present to the school, a new gas range, donated by the Honor Society, was placed in the activities room.

Entertainment for the first meeting of 1941 was afforded by Mr. Holman Hamilton of the Journal-Gazette and Mr. Robert Schott of the News-Sentinel. The former spoke on newspaper business as a career, while Mr. Schott spoke about airplanes, his special interest.

At the beginning of the spring semester, the leadership of this club was turned over to the new officers. Suzanne Collias assumed charge as president; Frank Krider, vice-president; and Paul Lemke, secretary-treasurer.

Since the present members of this society have proved that it can be done, why shouldn't the membership be boosted? When the seniors leave us, their places will be vacant for future students. Here's hoping your name is listed among next semester's members!

HONOR SOCIETY

Row one: Stuart, Essex, Felts, Williams, Breininger, Lemke, Collias, M. Masloob, Krider, Schmidt, Hadjieff, Krotke, Dawson. Row two: Mr. Butler, adviser, Plescher, Patton, Beckman, Kieffer, Brockmyer, Cox, Bruot, M. Plescher, Winicker, Kesler, Cline, Rinehold, F. Hadjieff, Wilkinson, Barber, Miss Ingham, adviser. Row three: Bailey, Krajewski, Knox, Prill, Slyby, Doenges, Hitzeman, Richter, A. Hambrock, Lambroff, Burkley, R. Hambrock, Colton, L. Masloob, Lopshire.

CENTRAL'S BEST CITIZENS RECEIVE THE McCLOUD CUP

By Evelyn Faulkner

"Thinking that there should be some recognition of those students who may not be outstanding in any of the arts, nor in athletics but yet who support Central High School by maintaining standards of citizenship according to the two codes now hung in the office, I offer this cup as an incentive to school citizenship," stated Miss Erdean McCloud, former Central librarian, when she donated the McCloud Cup to Central on January 17, 1928.

Now the McCloud Cup is one of the very highest awards attainable by seniors. Originally juniors as well as seniors were eligible to win the cup, but custom has prevailed and it is presented to seniors only at the present time.

Miss McCloud's primary purpose in presenting the cup was to create an interest in good citizenship in Central High School. It is an award which she wants every freshman to strive for and work toward. As a result, Central is a better place in which to live.

At the time Miss McCloud presented the cup, she was supervisor of branches of the public library and librarian at Central. She came to Fort Wayne from the Fremont County Library in Wyoming. Miss McCloud realized Central's need for citizenship from general conduct in the library and thus originated Central's Best Boy and Girl Citizen award. They were chosen originally by the student council and approved by the principal, but the custom has changed during the course of fourteen years so that now students are voted upon in the various clubs. Recipients of the award have their names engraved upon the cup on which there are 28 names at the present time.

According to Miss McCloud this year's winners, Evelyn Doenges and Clifford Simon, are greatly deserving of the honor, and she wishes them the greatest success in their future work. She is certain that their good citizenship will enable them to overcome all difficulties and stand triumphant in the end.

Central is indebted to Miss McCloud not only for the better citizenship she has brought within our halls but also for the better students she has made of Centralites in general.

Mr. Russell H. Earle, Central's genial speech coach, presents a trophy to the lucky winners of the Reising Declamation Contest: James Younce, winner in the dramatic division; Deloris Putt, humorous; and Clifford Simon, oratorical. ● For his outstanding speech service outside the school, David Skory, senior, receives the Fred H. Croninger Cup from its donor, our principal. ● "Big Dick" Tackett, seen here leaving school after a hard day, was honored this year by being named All-State center in football competition.

WINNERS BELOW

WHO, AWAKE TO CALL OF OPP

WINNERS ABOVE

Bobby Simon, well-known to Central students as the leader of a popular dance orchestra, is also recognized for having placed first in the cornet division at the Tri-State Music Contest this year. ● Outstanding journalists who won publication sweaters are: Standing, Wilbur Philo, Arthur Day, Harry Meads. Seated, Evelyn Doenges, Suzanne Collias, Betty Bohde, Betty Stumpf, and Chris Salomon. ● Social studies leaders, who were chosen by a conference of social science teachers, for the 1940-41 year are: Standing, Frank Krider, Bob Lutey, Jack Blaugh, and Arthur Day. Seated, Vera Diehm, Velma Tatman, and Nancy Wood.

WINNERS BELOW

Math students who have shown excellent ability in three and one-half or four years of mathematics, having averages over ninety percent, are Ardell Hambrock, George Lambroff, Bill Bailey, George Berry, and DeWald McCombs. ● In mechanical drawing classes, Fred Leinker and Lloyd Kesler have proved themselves outstanding in architectural drawing, and Ardell Hambrock and Ray Finton in engineering drawing. ● Jack Sturm and Eythel Hoffman, in Mrs. Lane's senior English class, are shown here preparing compositions to appear in The News-Sentinel's Youth's Passing Show.

FROM THE THRONG A FEW GRADUATE TO RISE HIGH IN MENTAL ATTAINMENT. ● CHATTING MATHEMATICALLY WITH PRINCIPAL CRONINGER IS CHESTER S. CUTSHALL, CENTRAL ALUMNUS, 1914, AND PROFESSOR AT PURDUE, ON A RECENT VISIT TO HIS OLD SCHOOL AND FORMER TEACHER.

CLASSES

Our principal, Mr. Fred H. Croninger, presents diplomas to proud seniors on Commencement Day, as they complete four years of study and service.

SENIORS BID GOOD-BYE AND LOOK TO FUTURE

By Ellena Cox and Virginia Maloley

We are treading the last mile of our school life and looking forward to the first mile of the future. For the past four years we have had access to every opportunity Central has had to offer, and they are so many that perhaps we have not been able to grasp them all.

As freshmen we had our share of hard knocks, but nevertheless, we came out on top with the helpful cooperation of the faculty and upperclassmen.

Even though young in experience, we wisely elected Clifford Simon for our president, Arthur Lenz as vice-president, and Betty Patton as secretary-treasurer.

Having had the green polished off, and consequently receiving little attention as sophomores, we started the school year right by electing Arthur Day for our president, Martha Jeanne Exner, vice-president, and Ruth Duell as secretary-treasurer.

Feeling like veterans and equipped with two years' previous experience, we as the junior class elected John Rathert as president, Dick Tackett, vice-president, and Reba Stettler, secretary-treasurer.

With the entire school "enthused" over the coming prom, our entire class worked faithfully to produce the memorable "Cotton Ball," ever to be remembered for its delightful color, gaiety, and southern atmosphere.

To successfully complete our last year in high school, we elected Bill Bailey for our president; Kenneth Ahlersmyer as vice-president; Mae Ruth Vanselow as secretary-treasurer; and Robert Blossom, Marlowe Bruot, Betty Lou Koenig, Reba Stettler, and Carl Lemke as social council members.

Clifford Simon and Mae Ruth Vanselow carried the Senior Play, "Almost Eighteen," to a top-flight performance with the supporting cast of Mavis Bloemker, Betty Patton, Charles Downie, Reba Stettler, Patty Leeth, Tom Crosbie, Leo Rumbaugh, Irma Eisenhauer, David Skory, Helen Adler, Marjorie Prange, Mary Ann Mohr, and Evelyn Faulkner. The play proved to be a financial success as well as entertaining.

Then came Recognition Day! On this day we proudly came forth in our caps and gowns to receive what we had gained from our opportunities at Central.

SENIORS SHOW THEIR GRATITUDE IN GIFTS

By Virginia Maloley

"It is better to give than to receive."

This truth has been known to Central students, but they have found that Central has been the "giver" and they have been the "receiver." In appreciation of Central, the senior class has gained great pleasure in reversing places with the school and becoming the "giver"for once. In fact, so eager have been senior classes to show their gratitude, that it has become a tradition for the graduating class to present a gift to the school.

And the 1941 class is no exception! A Baldwin grand piano, superb in tone and quality, has been placed in the school auditorium—the gift of this year's senior class.

For twenty years this custom has prevailed. The first gift, given by the classes of 1921, 1922, and 1923, was a stage curtain—replaced by the classes of 1927 and 1928 with another stage curtain, still in use in the auditorium.

Seeing the need for a suitable place to display the accumulating trophies of Central students, the class of 1924 gave a multiplex display case. One cup in this case is the scholarship cup given by the 1925 graduates.

Many classes presented the school with works of art. The two framed pictures in Room One were the gift of the 1926 class. Two paintings in the library by Anna Newman and a piano for the club rooms were presented by the 1929 seniors. The busts of Admiral Richard Byrd and Charles Lindbergh, and a painting by Homer Davisson were given in 1930. The class of 1931 provided the hedge surrounding the school yard along with books to the library. The 1935 and 1936 classes gave pictures which are adorning walls in the new building. Also in the new building are the gifts of 1939 and 1940—statues of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington.

For the increasing number of trophies the 1932 and 1934 graduates purchased more display cases.

One of the most useful gifts is the public address system given by the 1933 class. For a school address system a fund was contributed to by the 1937 and 1938 classes.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Presenting . . .

UNDERCLASSMEN

Nearly eighteen hundred underclassmen wend their way through the halls of Central daily to classes and to study hall to prepare lessons which will eventually lead to graduation.

All work and no play may make Jack a dull boy, but all play and no work will accomplish the same. Accordingly, Centralites, hoping not to be dull, study. Underclassmen study hard so they too will graduate.

In spacious, well-lighted Room 245, sitting in comfortable desks, students find it easy to study. Concentration, an essential to deep thinking, is encouraged by the quiet of this room. Here, the underclassmen prepare lessons for the next day without distraction of conversation and social affairs.

There is little dissention and less discomfort to be found in this model room. Although Lincoln may have been cold when he got his lessons, Centralites would still rather work in an air-conditioned room. Every day, every period, with the possible exception of lunch periods, this room is well-filled, for each has his work to do. While Centralites have this study hall, the opportunity to learn is great.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

JUNIORS GRASP OPPORTUNITY

By Carol L. Gulseth and Elinor Felts

As the idealistic immigrant stands on the second or third class deck of a steamship, slowly pulling into New York harbor, he views for the first time, with hopeful eyes, Our Lady of Liberty. Because he is idealistic, he sees what is symbolized by the woman and her torch—liberty, justice, freedom of innumerable things; but, principally, he sees opportunity.

So may a freshman be likened unto this immigrant. He comes to Central, idealistic, hoping to gain the most that he can from his school life in both scholastic and social ways. And like the immigrant, he becomes a true Centralite, a good and loyal citizen.

We of the junior class were quick to recognize this opportunity, and so began our school life by electing Alan Temple, Elinor Felts, and Dorothy Kyler freshman class officers, and inaugurating our social activities with a skating party. Don Rice, Dona O'Shaughnessey, and Dean Burt were our sophomore class officers, who successfully planned a skating party and a potluck, among other events.

Together with the advisers, Miss Virginia Kinnaird and Mr. Alvaro Ferlini, the officers and council planned the "Snowball Swing," Burt serving as general chairman of the dance. Betty Warner, Betty Bowser, Adella Costantino, Bob Cottingham, and Helen Niles acted as chairmen of different duties pertaining to the affair.

The crowning social event of the year was the colorful Junior Prom held in May—the lovely queen reigning over her attractive attendants, happy to serve their court of beauty.

SOPHOMORE CLASS OFFICERS

SOPHOMORES PLUNGE INTO LIFE OF ACTION

By Patty Cowan and LaVerne Faulkner

Opportunity? We sophomores of the class of 1943 have plenty of it! We can take advantage of the opportunity offered at Central by developing our personalities through its many extra-curricular activities, and by preparing ourselves for the grand-grind of later life through our school work.

Yet there is more opportunity offered at Central than is obtained from our school work and extra-curricular activities alone. This opportunity is that which we find in the inspiration of higher ideals given to us by our teachers. Their high standards, achieved through much living and passed on to us, aid in giving us an ideal towards which to work.

If our secret desires were disclosed, it is very probable that many of them would be that, by the time we are seniors, we will have done something worthwhile for Central. We also want to have achieved even more than just good grades. We hope that by the time we are seniors we will have had a liberal high school education so that we can go out into the world with great confidence.

Leading our personality parade is the president, Bill Michell; vice-president, Pam Burrell; secretary-treasurer, Patricia Cowan; and social council, Paul Lemke, Delores Ziton, Norma Runyon, Patricia Rice, and George DeVaux.

They fulfilled their offices faithfully, and, with the guidance of Miss Helen Phillips and Mr. Allen G. Cleaver, they planned a very successful Christmas party. This is but one of the instances in which sophomores have had a chance to make their ideas function.

The sophomores have their share of members on the honor roll and in extra-curricular activities—plays, clubs, and the publications. Before we have reached our goal, graduation, this class of 1943 will have completed successfully participation in extra-curricular activities besides their regular school work.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

FRESHMEN ENTER THEIR NEW SCHOOL WORLD

By Joan Cottingham and Dale Lopshire

Since we are just starting on the road to success, we have a "wonderful opportunity" to gain something for the future.

Our class officers have had an early start in leadership. John Stettler was named president, and Peggy Parkins, vice-president. The office of secretary-treasurer was filled by Catherine Plescher. John Paul Jones, Murray Mendenhall, Jr., Norman Doenges, Harriet Mudd, and Ann Bailey were chosen for the social council. These officers selected Miss Rosza O. Tonkel and Mr. Meredith Aldred as class advisers.

President: John Stettler

Many have talent in music and are exercising it in the band and orchestra. Freshmen in the band are Ruth Bradshaw, Ruth Essex, Ronald Lewton, Harvey Stute, Robert Hawkins, Vivian Paulus, Myron Carrier, Betty Dennie, Millard Gruber, Jean Heck, Eugene Michael, Byron Sheldon, John Vorndron, Paul Winkler, Peggy Parkins, and Elizabeth Shearer. Frosh in the orchestra are Ruth Essex, Mary Fowler, Maury Edelman, Bob Lutey, and Donna Williams.

Opportunity is also offered in journalism. In working on the publications we gain further knowledge and experience. Those on the Caldron are Joan Cottingham and Dale Lopshire. On the Spotlight are Beatrice Aldred, Phyllis Bachman, Ann Bailey, LaVon Bohde, Betty Carter, Sally Dehler, Norman Doenges, Ruth Essex, Mary Lou Felts, Duke Hirschy, Mona Lou O'Shaughnessey, Nellie Maloley, Joan Cottingham, Harriet Mudd, Helen Peterink, Catherine Plescher, Bob Poetzsch, Gloria Hoffman, Dorothy Boleyn, Peggy Parkins, Helen Pappert, and John Stettler.

Opportunity is offered in Central's extra-curricular activities, too. We freshmen are taking advantage of this opportunity by joining clubs and other activities that will develop our characters and minds. We, the class of 1944, are trying to do all we can for Central.

Here we see Catherine Plescher, Ann Bailey and Beatrice Aldred studying hard for that Latin exam, but they do not seem especially worried about the outcome.

THE OUT-OF-DOORS DELIGHTS TIHS CLUB

By Doris Patton

Burly dozing humblebee,
Where thou art is clime for me.
—Emerson

So think 47 enthusiastic students who love the wide open spaces. They seek to increase their knowledge and enjoyment of the out-of-doors through participation in the activities of the Nature Club. In this club two meetings are scheduled each month, one an indoor meeting, the other a field trip.

Programs throughout the year were made interesting by the students and several guest speakers. Mr. Homer Price of Payne, Ohio, talked on hawks and showed a large collection of hawk eggs. Mr. Dana Driver, a lapidarist, displayed a number of his polished stones and told members of the club many interesting things about his lifelong hobby. Mr. Kolemerten of the Conservation Department gave a talk in which he emphasized the importance of conservation. Talks and demonstrations were given by students on current magazines, rocks and projects.

Preceding the final spring trip to Pokagon State Park there were many outdoor activities. A trip was made to Franklin School, where Miss Lola M. Eckles exhibited her shell collection. There were several early-morning bird-hikes, and also a wild flower field trip to Franke Park. One of the most interesting trips was an evening star study at Foster Park, followed by a potluck supper. An annual skating party held at Bell's Rink was a social event which proved to be outstanding.

The Nature Club is a member of the State Junior Academy of Science which is composed of 38 high school science clubs in Indiana. Last fall a group attended the annual meeting of this organization held at Muncie. They contributed in the project exhibit.

Officers for both semesters were as follows: first semester, president, Orren Miller; vice-president, Leona Zuber; secretary, Dorthea Work; treasurer, Raymond Rogers; second semester, president, Virginia Foley; vice-president, Eugene Brubaker; secretary, Marion Sweeny; treasurer, Bert Zeigler.

The requirements for membership are a special interest in nature, and one year of biology.

MATH CLUB COMBINES FUN AND FIGURES

By Mary Jane Masloob

The oldest high school club in Fort Wayne is the Mathematics Club of Central, founded in 1913 by Mr. D. W. Werremeyer. The Math Club has been able to win this distinction because of the many opportunities it affords its members.

Among its opportunities, one of the main purposes of the club is to make the teachers and students of mathematics better acquainted. These teachers act as advisers of Math Club. Miss Mary E. Gardner, head adviser, is assisted by Miss Marie H. Christman, Miss Dorothy A. Ridgway, and Mr. Alvaro Ferlini.

Another opportunity provided by Math Club is that of increasing one's knowledge of the vast field of mathematics. At each meeting members are enlightened with mathematical information. The speakers for this school year have been interesting and informative. Among these are Miss Mary E. Gardner, who explained "The Slide Rule"; Miss Lodie M. Clark, who spoke on "Mathematics in Relation to Business"; Mr. Alvaro Ferlini, who illustrated and proved the theorem on "The Nine Point Circle"; and Mr. J. H. Chappell, who spoke on "The Need of Mathematics."

Row one: Miller, Dreyer, Miss Christman, adviser, Miss Gardner, adviser, A. Hambrock, Wisner, M. Masloob, Exner, Duell, Lemke, McCombs. Row two: Mr. Ferlini, adviser, Davis, Hitzeman, Croghan, Bishop, Krajewski, Schenck, Prill, McDaniels, L. Masloob, Miss Ridgway, adviser. Top row: Krider, Breininger, Schuster, Slyby, Mann, French, Lickert, R. Hambrock, Kughler, Oberkiser, Stumpf, Plescher.

Along with the educational side of Math Club comes plenty of entertainment and refreshment. At every meeting mathematical games and appetizing refreshments are enjoyed. One of the most entertaining meetings this year was the December meeting, when the club celebrated its twenty-seventh anniversary. And then of course, the skating party in March and the annual picnic in May were loads of fun for everyone!

The officers of Math Club for the first semester were: Ardell Hambrock, president; Ruth Duell, vice-president; Mary Jane Masloob, secretary; and Gale Wisner, treasurer. For the second semester they are: Gale Wisner, president; Mary Jane Masloob, vice-president; Martha Jeanne Exner, secretary; and DeWald McCombs, treasurer.

The officers of Math Club are to be credited with their fine job of managing the business affairs of the club. But it is to the committees of Math Club that goes the credit of making the one evening of the month enjoyable for all. And to the advisers goes the credit for the perpetuity of The Math Club.

CTC PROMOTES CITIZENSHIP, SOCIABILITY

By Wilma Ahlersmeyer

The Central Triangle Club's aim is to give every girl an equal opportunity to become a better Christian and a better citizen. It gives one the opportunity to learn, to be courteous and friendly, and to work and play with others.

As a club affiliated with the Young Women's Christian Association, we seek to understand Jesus, and share His love for all people.

The Central Triangle Club's social events of the year started off with a wiener bake at Foster Park, where wieners and marshmallows were the main attraction with games added. CTC, as it is commonly called, was included in the Girl Reserves' all-city skate, besides having a skating party of its own. The profits from the all-city skate are to be used in sending girls to Camp Yamelle.

The most touching meeting was the Christmas Candle-lighting Ceremonial and Mother-Daughter Tea combined. Miss Mary Harrah, a former faculty member of Central, was the guest speaker. Her topic was "Christmas." Besides these meetings the group has visited many interesting places. To commemorate Mother's Day the club held a tea in honor of the members' mothers. For Easter a potluck was held. The last meeting of the semester is to be held in the form of an outdoor meeting. Members attended well this year.

Some of the services rendered by the service department were fixing a box of clothes to be turned over to the Needle Work Guild for needy families; buying materials for a large Thanksgiving basket, and another at Christmas time. These baskets were also given to families in need.

Wilma Ahlersmeyer was president for last semester, with Dorothy Neu, vice-president, Virginia Davies, secretary, and Bonnie Lester, treasurer, very ably backing her.

The committee chairmen were Selma Mohr, Lorraine Ahrens, Phyllis Goehler, Catherine Plescher, and Lena Belle Reason. These are five good reasons for the interesting meetings.

The new officers for this semester are Selma Mohr, president; Dorothy Lindeman, vice-president; Catherine Plescher, secretary, and Doris Hiedbrink, treasurer. Hmmm! It seems there is a future in being chairman of a committee!

Ring Circle members were Evelyn Beckman and Wilma Ahlersmeyer. They will receive rings this spring at the annual banquet. This ring is a reward for their hard work.

Miss Catherine Jackson has been the adviser for a few years and is still working hard.

THEY CARRY THE LIGHTED TORCH

By Maurice Ashley

Do you want to be aided in obtaining fine character? Well boys, then join the Torch Club! The fulfillment of its slogan, "Clean speech, clean sports, clean scholarship, clean living," in its meetings will surely benefit you.

In 1925 the Torch Club was formed, when the Hi-Y grew so large as to be uncontrollable. The club was organized to accept in its membership students from the freshman and sophomore classes, leaving the Hi-Y to consist of juniors and seniors.

The Torch Club has as its goal the same objective as that of the Hi-Y—creating, maintaining, and extending the high ideals of Christian citizenship among high school boys. These characteristics have been developed by the club to the point of mutual aid in the adolescent problems, and a wide knowledge and appreciation of social and economic problems to be met by the boys after they leave high school. The development of these characteristics is aided by meetings and talks with civic and business leaders of the community.

The meetings of the Torch Club, which are held on Tuesday nights at 7:30 o'clock at the YMCA, have given the members much varied information by the guest speakers. This past year Mr. Barry Tolan, city inspector of weights and measures; Captain John Taylor; Mr. H. C. Dart, of the Better Business Bureau, and many other prominent representatives of the Fort Wayne civic and religious organizations, spoke to the club.

At other meetings the members viewed and then discussed movies from the Fort Wayne Milk council.

The officers of the club for the first semester were: Russell Dreyer, president; Norman Doenges, vice-president; Robert Roembke, secretary-treasurer. Second semester officers are: William McMullen, president; Norman Doenges, vice-president; and Edgar Gick, secretary-treasurer.

Since 1934 Mr. Maurice Ashley has been sponsor for the Torch Club. He is serving the club well and all the boys enjoy being under his supervision. To assist Mr. Ashley, Mr. Paul Dailey was installed as co-sponsor in the fall of 1939.

Thus, the work of this club serves to develop the spiritual and moral side of personality in Central High School.

THEY CRY, "VIVE LA FRANCE!"

By Louise Masloob

"Allons enfants de la patrie—." Every French Club or Cercle Francais member knows that this song, "Le Marseillais," is sung at the end of each French Club meeting. These meetings, held bimonthly, are under the advisership of Miss Mildred J. Brigham.

At the Mardi-Gras meetings, annually observed by the Cercle Francais, delicious pancakes (les crepes) are made and served with syrup in the cafeteria. This is considered an important meeting of the year.

The Cercle Francais officers for the first semester were: Suzanne Collias, president; Betty Hargrave, vice-president; and Orren Miller, secretary-treasurer. Those serving as officers for the second semester are: Betty Hargrave, president; Rose Ochstein, vice-president; and Louise Masloob, secretary-treasurer.

On Recognition Day French dictionaries are awarded to certain French students. Those who received a dictionary last year are: Geraldine Miller, Betty Hargrave, and Chester Krasienko. These dictionaries are purchased by the French Club.

All pupils who have had at least one year of French are eligible to belong to French Club. Those who are still in their first year of French are eligible for membership in the club if they make an "A" in French.

The theme carried out in last semester's meetings was "The French and their customs." The theme chosen for this semester is "Canada's France."

All the French Club meetings have been interesting. Among these was a talk by Mr. James Throp of his visit in France. The members themselves, however, usually take charge of and present the program for most of the meetings.

For the dramatic members of the French Club, opportunity was provided for them to use their talents in presenting the play, "Christmas Eve" or "La Vielle de Noel," and at another meeting in the portraying of famous French paintings.

At every meeting the members sing French songs and usually play French games. These club members, at each meeting, increase their knowledge of life and customs in France.

"Learn more about France and its language," seems to be the club's motto. Or, as the club would say, "Apprendons beaucoup de France et sa langue."

SERVING OTHERS PLEASES US

By Margueretta Porter

"I'll let you play with my airplane if you'll lend me that racer of yours; 'Pop' never would let me have one when I was a little fellow."

Central's faculty and student body may have thought that second childhood had descended upon the members of the Red Cross Club, as they made merry at their annual Christmas party last December.

Those attending the affair met at the Lewis Street entrance of the school and caroled to the scene of the festivities, which was the home of one of the members. Of course, there was a gift exchange, but not an ordinary one, in which Mary received a supply of handkerchiefs, and John got a bottle of perfume, which was meant for the girl sitting next to him.

Each member scouted through the ten-cent stores to find, not the usual thing for an exchange, but a toy to bring happiness to some poor child, after the club had had their share of fun with it the night of the party.

Three baskets of food, each accompanied by a basket of gifts, were distributed among the needy in the city by the Red Cross Club, at the yuletide season, in addition to the boxes of toys which were filled and sent abroad. Baskets of food were also distributed at Thanksgiving and Easter.

"Service" is the aim of this club, which is sponsored by Miss Edna Smith, but, "All work and no play would make the club a dull group," so a special social function is planned at least twice a year.

A theater party at the Maumee Theater was undertaken by the Club, which celebrated its birthday this spring. Duane Tatman led in the ticket sales.

The officers of the Red Cross Club for the first semester were: President, Lois Fowler; vice-president, Phyllis Dunbar; and secretary-treasurer, Mary Ellen Burns.

Officers for the second semester were: President, Margueretta Porter; vice-president, Phyllis Potts; and secretary-treasurer, Betty Potts.

BIBLIOPHILES CHECK CARDS AND BOOKS

By Ralph Hollman

What are the opportunities offered by library service other than just plain work? The answer is that by this service we gain accuracy, personality, dependability, speed, and tact, as well as knowledge of books and familiarity with students.

As soon as the doors are opened in the morning, students fill the library, cramming information before classes open. Every morning Rose Ochstein and Marceil Saalfrank stamp and charge the outgoing books. Richard Geye stacks the books according to the classification as they come in. Every book is checked by Wilson Seitz as it leaves the library. Few idlers are seen during these moments, as time is valuable.

The first period helpers are also very busy. Dorothy Colton, Ralph Hollman, Elnora Maloney, and Orren Miller are the helpers, who, in the space of one period, must put cards in and shelve the books returned, as well as check the attendance, file cards and write overdue notices. Special care must be taken by each helper, because one slight mistake may cause confusion and a great deal of extra work.

Richard Haller, Mary Alice Caley, Betty Ott and Jean Buckmaster are the assistants during periods 2, 3, 6, and 7 respectively, taking care of the routine work.

After school Nancy Wood, Donna Mae O'-Shaughnessey, Carol Gulseth, Betty Sylvester, Jean Buckmaster, Doris Hinen and Helen Nickelson are the staff who serve different evenings stamping books and filing cards. Wilson Seitz guards the door, while Richard Hinton shelves books.

The Library Service Group was organized in 1936 for the purpose of making the library service effective. Each year Miss Beierlein begins a new class which, after a semester of study and practice work, fills the vacancies left by graduating seniors.

The officers elected for this school year were Ralph Holman, president, and Jean Buckmaster, secretary.

The group has two social functions each semester to enable the members to become better acquainted. Last semester the students enjoyed Hallowe'en and Christmas parties given by Miss Beierlein.

Each of the students has unlimited opportunities to serve, and at the same time to receive a great amount of satisfaction and joy.

TRAVEL GROUP SEES WORLD VIA TALKS

By Marcelline Plescher

Although the opportunity for travel by Central students is limited, great are the chances to enjoy the experiences of others who have had the opportunity by participation in the activities of the Vagabond Club.

Founded by Miss Mary Catherine Smeltzly, widely-traveled Central teacher, the Vagabonds continued their activities after her resignation from teaching duties, under the leadership of Miss Esther J. Thomas.

Elected to fill the position of president for the fall semester was Marcelline Plescher, who was assisted in her duties by Dorothy Hoehn, who served as treasurer, Thomas Essex, vice-president, and Elinor Felts, secretary.

Dorothy Hoehn was elected to fill the presidency for the new semester, and Evelyn Doenges served as vice-president. Lois Hostler was selected for the position of secretary, and Ellena Cox served as treasurer.

Confining their efforts to the Western Hemisphere, the Vagabonds conducted interesting meetings centered around rural and urban Mexico and Alaska. Miss Smeltzly spoke on the latter subject at the annual Christmas Banquet, at which she was a special guest. At this same meeting Miss Smeltzly presented to the club several travel books to be used by interested students.

Mexico was the chief topic of interest at the meetings during the first semester. Miss Helen Hilgemann, attendance teacher, gave an account of her travels in Mexico. This was very interesting since she told of the rural life of these people. Louise Masloob gave a talk on the customs and manners of the young people and how they get acquainted.

In February Deloris Putt gave a review of the travel by stagecoach in the time of George Washington. She also told of the taverns and inns that were stationed on the routes.

At the meeting in March Miss Thomas gave a report on highlights that have been experienced by the Club since its establishment in 1932. The Club has heard the accounts of numerous well-known speakers who have traveled in foreign countries. Besides these speakers the Club has enjoyed book reviews, banquets, and travel games.

As in the past, the Travel Trophy was again presented on Recognition Day to the student writing the best essay on his travels.

WE DELVE INTO OUR INTERESTS

By Lucile Hallien

"English is fun—when you turn it into good times!"

So any member of the Delvers Club might tell you who has been on hand for the many events presented this past year.

Delvers, strictly a girls' club, had its beginning six years ago when its adviser, Miss M. Ruth Brown, had an idea for a club to "further interest in English." The organization then began its custom of choosing a topic for study at the beginning of each semester.

Last fall, however, the members decided upon three such topics, because of the wider opportunity for variation.

Correspondence with a Kentucky mountain girl constituted one of the most interesting projects of the year, as did a study of flower arrangement, with its educational value. "Music," as a topic, was held over from last year and led to a number of musical meetings.

To start the 1940-41 season right, the Delvers girls, under Jackie McHenry, put on a splendid skating party at Bell's rink on October 12.

Miss Elizabeth Little, teacher at Harrison Hill School and a worker in national philanthropic movements, spoke before the club on November 5 and acquainted the girls with the unusual customs of mountain folk.

December 17 was the date of the Christmas banquet held in the cafeteria. Virginia Coverdale, of the News-Sentinel, was guest speaker, and an appropriate holiday program made the event one to be long remembered.

New members were welcomed into the club at the Valentine party, February 11. Music, food, and lots of fun all served to start the new semester off with a "bang."

Time passed quickly and May was fast approaching when the girls began plans for their annual Mother-Daughter Tea, the most important affair of the year. Mothers were invited as honor guests and everyone enjoyed the occasion.

A picnic marked the close of the year.

Officers who served the first semester were: Lucile Hallien, president; Jackie McHenry, vice-president; Eileen Kagey, secretary; and Mildred Ehrman, treasurer. Eileen Bohde was made president for the second semester, while Beatrice Aldred acted as vice-president, LaVon Bohde, as secretary, and Mary Lou Felts, as treasurer.

HI-Y STRIVES FOR HIGH CHARACTER

By Arthur Day

"Stop! Let's see your pass."

Have you ever had these words thrown at you by a student in the halls of Central? Well, if you have, don't hold it against him for he is a member of the Hi-Y, which operates the student monitor system in Central.

The club, made up of juniors and seniors, meets Monday nights at the YMCA. It offers an interesting recreational program which includes the Y's games and the use of its pool. The club conducts an intellectual discussion and study of subjects that are confronting its members or will confront them in the near future. Many of the speakers that the club had through the past year presented additional ideas and views along with many other interesting topics. A few of this year's speakers were: Mr. Donald Brake, the YMCA secretary, who talked on Hi-Y in the East; Mr. Tom Berry, on Thanksgiving; Mr. David Hogg, on working conditions and politics; Mr. James McFadden, New Year's resolutions; along with Miss Anna B. Lewis and Mr. Fred H. Croninger as honorary speakers.

"To create, maintain, and extend, throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character," is the motto and aim of the members of the Hi-Y.

The important events of the club year's program included a wiener roast held on the farm of Mr. Harry L. Veatch with the "guys and their gals" enjoying everything from moonlight to hot dogs. Late in December a Christmas party was held for the members—and then came the Hi-Y Shuffle, the club's yearly dance, with the Scotchman's slogan, "Stag or Drag."

The sweetheart banquet was held April 15. As vacation neared, the club concluded its activities with its annual lake party at the Y's camp on Blackman Lake.

The members that led the club the first semesident; Mac Fortney, vice-president; Glen Lewton, dent; Bill Bailey, vice-president; Jim Anderson, secretary; and Art Day, treasurer. The second semester's officers included: Charley Shaw, president; Max Fortney, vice-president; Glen Lewton, secretary; and Matt Hand, treasurer. Eugene Meier and Albert Lauer served as organization chaplains.

GOODWILL MARKS ALL THEIR ACTIVITIES

By Marcella Hadjieff

"Opportunity knocks but once." You had better get this out of your cerebellum (mind—to you) before entering through the doors to a Friendship meeting.

For there are many opportunities for all Friendship girls. There is the chance to make many friends; there is the opportunity to partake in group discussions, which are held every other Tuesday. This in itself offers self-reliance, poise, and ease in speaking.

FRIENDSHIP CLUB

"Face life squarely" is the slogan of the Friendship girls. "Find and give the best" is their purpose. Last semester's theme was "Character and Personality," with Wanda Lipp as president.

Because of the turmoil in the East, much time was given to the promotion of good-will, fellowship, and other peace projects. On Thanksgiving a basket was filled with all good things.

Besides celebrations and parties held on Christmas and Valentine's Day, vesper services were held in reverence to God. These services are awe-inspiring and are always held for the celebration of some notable date, such as the Girl Reserves' birthday. For every banquet held last semester, the dependable Friendship girls, ready for service, were called upon to serve the dinners.

The spring semester will be centered around "The History of Girl Reserves." This theme was prompted by the fact that the Girl Reserves' 60th Anniversary is going to be celebrated on April 20th. Some of the other activities planned by the Friendship girls are, first, of course, the recognition meeting, which is held to initiate new members, by candlelight; also, there are meetings concerning Easter, world fellowship, peace projects, and the making of some needy things for homes and other such organizations.

The Friendship girls strive to secure six elements in every one of their programs. They are: service projects, devotions, world fellowship, recreations, and social programs—that is, a program stressing a certain, celebrated day—and last, civic responsibilities.

AS THE LIGHTS DIM, THE PLAYERS BEGIN

By Patty Leeth

Student Players Club! Those words stand for a club which offers opportunities for those who love the stage and are interested in its opportunities. It is under the capable direction of Miss Margery Suter, whose hard work is proved when you see one of her successful stage presentations.

In October, the first meeting of the year, an election of officers was held with the result that Clifford Simon was elected president; Patty Leeth, vice-president; Ruth Duell, secretary-treasurer.

STUDENT PLAYERS CLUB

First row: Bolinger, Rice, V. Potts, Ziton, Roller, Haney, Hargrave, P. Exner, Crosbie, Porter, Garrett, Mohr, E. Faulkner, L. Faulkner, Tescula. Second row: Possell, Collias, Hamman, Prange, Patton, Duell, Leeth, R. Stettler, Simon, Downie, Clibon, Warner, Watson, Ochstein, L. Skory, Sauers, Miss Suter, adviser. Third row: B. Potts, Schneider, Burton, Costantino, Blauvelt, Cunningham, Tsetse, Bruot, Dietel, Fleck, Burns, Bloemker, Adler, Doenges, Schultz, D. Skory, Buchan. Top row: M. J. Exner, Maloley, DeHaven, Mintch, Michell, Ahlersmeyer, Brown, Wall, Cottingham, Temple, Rathert, Thomas, Day, J. Stettler, Butler, Kelley, Burt.

Also in the month of October two one-act comedies were presented. In one of the comedies, "Two Plus Two," parts were taken by Mae Ruth Vanselow, Mavis Bloemker, Charles Downie, and James Younce. In the other, "Red Carnations," roles were portrayed by Clifford Simon, Leo Rumbaugh and Patty Leeth. On November 15-16, members of the SPC presented the annual senior play, "Almost Eighteen." The leading parts were taken by talented seniors whose performances brought a large, responsive audience.

Two Christmas plays were presented with roles portrayed by capable students of SPC. The Centralites who attended the productions enjoyed them immensely. Many of these entertaining plays could not be produced without the aid of the ever-faithful stage crew members. Although there is a lot of hard work in this occupation, the boys still have a "jolly good time."

At mid-semester new members, initiates into the organization, presented a play written by Charles Downie. After the plays the annual dance for members only from all three high schools was given in Central's cafeteria.

At the February election of officers for the remainder of the term, Charles Downie was elected president; Reba Stettler, vice-president; and Ruth Duell, secretary-treasurer.

The meeting most enjoyed by the Student Players is no doubt the joint picnic of the Student Players from North Side, South Side, and Central, held in Franke Park at the end of the term. New members are initiated and present an initiation play. Also Miss Suter awards the honorary plaque to the school which has had the best program throughout the year. This plaque was awarded to Central at the picnic last year.

THEY FIND JOY IN CREATING BEAUTY

By Billie Doswell

"The power to appreciate growth through cultivating the sense of beauty."

This statement from Collins and Riley's "Art Appreciation" best reveals the theme and purpose of the Art Club, Central's organization which offers greater opportunities for delving into the formula for beauty and originality—art.

"To create and maintain a greater appreciation of art" is the ultimate purpose of the club; which was organized several years ago, and is at present, under the guidance of the advisers, Miss Mary Helen Ley and Mrs. Ruth DeHaven.

Lucille Zimmerman was elected president of the club at the first meeting of the year held October 7 in the art room. Other results of the election placed Jack Sturm as vice-president; Elaine Mentzer, secretary; Leo Rumbaugh, treasurer; Doris Rochell, in charge of refreshments; Suzanne Collias, in charge of publicity; and Leona Zuber program chairman.

Miss Sonja Velcoff, fashion artist from Wolf & Dessauer, was guest speaker at the November 4 meeting. She displayed several of her illustrations and gave an interesting talk on her career, both at its inception and at the present time.

It has been the custom of the Art Club to decorate the building in keeping with the Christmas season each year and to set up in the second floor hallway a beautiful Christmas tree. The 1940 decorations were completed December 13, and were a joy to the eye of every Centralite during the week in which they adorned the hall.

Another annual event of the club is the Valentine Tea Dance which was held this year in the cafeteria amid decorative paper figures of lovely girls wearing heart hats and carrying huge fans adorning the walls. Those in charge of this gala event included Lucille Zimmerman, Helen Somers, Doris Rochell, Ellena Cox, Leo Rumbaugh, Leona Zuber, Jack Sturm, Elaine Mentzer, Irene Goeglein, Don Kinley, Elizabeth Niblick, Virginia Davies, Pete Collias, Miss Mary Helen Ley, and Mrs. Ruth DeHaven.

The spring semester meetings featured the May picnic held at Foster Park, and the election of Helen Somers to succeed Leo Rumbaugh as treasurer of the club.

WE LIVE IN A ROMAN ATMOSPHERE

By Carol Gulseth

Having over sixty members, a record in the nine years of the organization's existence, the Latin Club has added one more glorious year to its history.

Leading the club for the first semester as Primus Consul (president), was Mary Ember. Her subordinate officers were: Harry Shadle, Secundus Consul (vice-president); and Mary Catherine Wood, Quaestor-Scriba (secretary-treasurer).

Miss Florence J. Lucasse and Miss Eva M. McKinnie are the admired advisers, who assist and guide the officers.

Opportunity is given to all students who have taken, or are taking, Latin, to join the club. Having joined, the member finds that it is not "all work and no play" as might be supposed. In fact, informal talks by both students and teachers, humorous plays, and parties are but a few of the program features of the club.

"The Benefits of Latin" were discussed by Mr. Russell H. Earle, speech department head, at the September meeting. Gene Mintch spoke on "The Early Roman School." A humorous play, "Ferdinand the Bull," was first read in Latin by Alan Temple, and then translated into English by Ardyth Cramar. Several members of the club pantomimed the play.

Connecting Latin with the Thanksgiving observance, some of the members entertained with an appropriate playlet, at the November meeting. Phillis Dunbar reviewed a book, "The Conquered."

The December meeting was held in the form of a Christmas party. Dorothy Boleyn gave a reading from Dickens; Jean Kauffman spoke on "Christmas Customs in Modern Italy"; and Sam Stuart told of "The Roman Saturnalia." Moses Slyby was elected Primus Consul at the January meeting. Other positions were given to Dorothy Colton, Secundus-Consul; and Eileen Pliett, Quaestor-Scriba.

Miss Mary Harrah, former Latin instructor and club adviser, and Miss Mary Catherine Smeltzly, also a former Central teacher, were heartily received by the members when they made visits to the club.

Alan Temple, junior, was accorded the honor of being appointed editor-in-chief of the Fragmenta, official organ of the language departments. He also served as head of the Latin section of the paper.

BOOSTING KEEPS US BUSY

By Suzanne Collias

There's never a dull moment for any member of the Booster Club! From the beginning of the football season to the end of the basketball season, the Boosters are either selling, decorating, making novelties, or planning to boost some worth-while project!

This year Miss Mildred J. Brigham, adviser of Boosters for the past ten years, announced her resignation. For the last time, she presented the Booster gavel to Tom Crosbie, who was elected chairman at the first organization meeting.

We started our activities with the annual Booster banquet, which was held in the school cafeteria.

The pigskin season began and the pigskin season came to an end. We had no regrets, however, for we had already elected Betty Mathews to act as general chairman of the Tiger Mixer, another Booster tradition. Paper footballs, helmets, shoulder pads, track shoes, and numerals comprised the blue-white decorations for the dance.

Then the basketball season began! Once more we sold novelties and refreshments; we decorated gymnasiums and planned more projects.

We had much fun, but soon another season came to an end. This year, as in other years, we honored the basketball players and certain members of the faculty at the annual Valentine pep session.

The following girls, led by Betty Lou Koenig and Virginia Maloley, co-chairmen of the affair, presented this colorful pep session: Helen Adler, Mavis Bloemker, Marcella Bultemeier, Suzanne Collias, Mary Jane Masloob, Betty Mathews, Patty Leeth, Marcelline Plescher, Betty Patton, Virginia Robinson, and Reba Stettler.

With our combined talents, we transformed our cafeteria into a dock scene for a "Moonlight Cruise" on March 29, aboard the S. S. Brigham. A big moon overhead, stars twinkling in the background, and the light-house rays shining over the calm river—all provided a true nautical atmosphere as the decorations for the Booster dance.

Our last get-together, a picnic, was held at a lake. After swimming, canoeing, sun-bathing, and eating in the great outdoors, we lowered the curtain and brought to an end another successful Booster year.

LIKE A FLAME, CENTRAL SPIRIT RISES

Boosters, as their name implies, are ever faithful, ever working for Central. Boosters face chilly ootball weather and jostle through noisy basketball crowds to sell their wares.

Below, left: Betty Mathews and Betty Stumpf, elling candy and gum, seem "happy about the whole thing." Maybe it's because business is good.

VALENTINE COMMITTEE

Willing mothers of the Parent-Teacher Association are here making tallies for the annual Valentine party, held February 14, attended by over 400 people.

Card games, ping pong, and other attractive features kept the crowd occupied, with table and attendance prizes being awarded to the winners.

Another affair which attracted a large crowd of students, parents, and teachers was the "Fall Frolic," the idea of which was popularly received, November 1.

MOTHERS AND FATHERS MEET WITH TEACHERS

By Carol Gulseth

"Youth and This Modern World" was the keynote of the 1940-41 sessions of Central's Parent-Teacher Association, led by Mrs. C. E. Simon, acting in the capacity of president.

Subordinate officers were Mrs. F. C. Stettler, first vice-president; Mr. Maurice Ashley, second vice-president; Mrs. T. C. DeHaven, secretary; and Mrs. M. D. Warner, treasurer.

"Meeting monthly, the organization is of benefit to the student in that it brings the home and school more closely together," explained Mrs. Simon. She further said that by acquaintances with the parents the instructor knows better how to handle the student.

The superintendent of public schools, Mr. Merle J. Abbett, urges parents to join the P-TA for the reason that "It is an organization which has the welfare and progress of the students at heart."

One of the outstanding events of the social program of the P-TA was the "Spring Fiesta," a dance for which Mrs. Edward Salomon was general chairman, April 25, in the new cafeteria. Miss Helen Phillips, Miss Dorothy Ridgway, and Mr. Russell Rowe also assisted with the dance. Mr. Charles P. Turpin served all year as publicity chairman of the organization.

CHORUS ENRICHES SINGERS' LIVES

By Irma Eisenhauer

"Give us the key, Martha—one, two, three, sing." This is the way Mr. Gaston Bailhe, our director, begins the Chorus meeting every Tuesday and Thursday the fourth period. The meetings are held in the new building in a room built especially for the Chorus. It is indeed a pleasure to sing under such favorable surroundings.

The Chorus is directed by Mr. Gaston Bailhe, who is also the director of the Fort Wayne Civic Symphony. The accompanist of the Chorus is Martha Jeanne Exner, and the guardian of their music is Lillian Wesner, the librarian.

The Chorus consists of boys and girls who are interested in better music. They participate not only in Central High School activities but they also sing throughout the city. This year they have filled many engagements in churches and other organizations. During the Christmas season they added to the yuletide spirit by singing a group of songs from the Lincoln Tower. They took part in a radio broadcast over station WGL. They provided the musical background for a religious Old Fort play entitled "The Kingdom of God."

Their outstanding performance of the whole year is given in the annual operetta. This year the operetta was entitled "Words and Music." It was a rollicking comedy in two acts. The leading parts were taken by Virginia Maloley, Bob Cottingham, Alan Temple, Charles Downie, Gene Mintch, Jack DeHaven, Steven Thomas and Irma Eisenhauer.

On March 28 they made a trip to Indianapolis and attended a concert given by the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra.

By singing in the Chorus, the students are learning to appreciate the finer things in life. First of all, the music itself is an inspiration, being of the best outstanding composers. The melodies they sing will forever linger in their minds. Their scope of musical knowledge is increased through their large repertoire. Singing in the Chorus teaches them to cooperate and to concentrate, for these two qualities are essential for a good performance.

The Chorus enriches the students' lives and broadens their horizon of the true musical art. It offers opportunities for all those who are willing to accept it.

BAND ADDS COLOR, SPIRIT TO BALL GAMES

By Martha Jeanne Exner

Crash! Bang! Rumble!

"How many times have I told you not to play those tympanies?"

"Gee-whiz, I was only tuning them."

We hear many of these amusing incidents every Monday and Friday the fifth period, when the band practices. The band is not all fun as one might think. It takes hard work on the part of all concerned to develop a band such as Central's.

When one goes to any of Central's football or basketball games the first thing which takes his eye is the band. It adds the needed color and spirit to the games. The band also plays at all pep sessions.

October 19 was the date of the annual band dance. The theme was "Ghost Frolic," and the decorations were cleverly carried out in the Hallowe'en motif, with Bob Simon's orchestra furnishing the music for it. Joan Rumbaugh served as general chairman of the affair and Betty Coburn, co-chairman. Other committees were: decorations, Bill Brown, Patsy Exner, Betty Jane Baumgartner, Delores Hammon, Harvey Stute, and Willard Gruber; tickets, Martha Jeanne Exner; refreshments, Harold Miser and Joe Lickert; chaperons, Ruth Duell; and check room, Bob Howard and Helen Baker. It was a great success!

January 3 the band traveled to Hartford City.

The band presented a concert in March for the entire student body of Central. It was directed by Mr. Gaston Bailhe, our music instructor, with Marjorie Fowler, Irma Eisenhauer, and Virginia Maloley as soloists, all of whom were accompanied by Martha Jeanne Exner.

Bill Brown, our drum major, capably directs our sixty-piece band. Other officers are: recording secretary, Helen Baker; treasurer, Patsy Exner; and property managers, Bill Vaice, Bob Lutey, and Eugene Michael.

ORCHESTRA EXPRESSES ALL MOODS IN MUSIC

By Patty Cowan

"Now! Is everyone ready?" are the words expressed by Mr. Gaston Bailhe, our music instructor, when it is time for another practice of Central's Orchestra to begin. After the students start to play, they become so interested in what they are doing that before they have realized it another period has slipped by, and the bell marks the end of a joyful hour of music. The members of the orchestra always feel very reluctant in putting their instruments away, since they have only two periods a week in which to rehearse—the fifth period every Tuesday and Thursday.

Through music we gain many opportunities to express ourselves. We learn to appreciate classical music and to enjoy the more serious compositions as well as the lighter. Less obvious but equally important is the fact that we learn to concentrate and cooperate more. All of this experience helps us in later years.

The Concert Meister of the Orchestra is Martha Jeanne Exner. Helen Baker is the orchestra's secretary, Patsy Exner is the orchestra's treasurer, and Betty Jane Baumgartner is the orchestra's librarian. The property managers are Bob Lutey, Bill Voice, and Eugene Michael.

The first public appearance of the orchestra was made when it presented a concert at a large banquet of the Superintendents of Indiana. A very enjoyable violin solo was played by Donald Flaig, a student at the James Smart School. The next performance was given at the radio station for the School of the Air. The first appearance before Central's student body was made in Central's gym. At this concert Mary Fowler made her first appearance as a violinist soloist. Reverend Trojan sang "The Holy City." At the Lincoln Tower the orchestra played several Christmas songs for the public of Fort Wayne.

The orchestra is larger this year than ever before. Because of an increased interest in symphonic music of late, it is expected to show even greater progress.

SPEAKERS TRAVEL, TALK, DINE, DEBATE,

By Sam Stuart

Twice around the earth! This was the student mileage record of the Speech Department during the last school year. In rolling up this impressive mileage, Central's speakers journeyed to cities in Indiana, Ohio, and Kentucky with an excellent degree of success.

The competiiive season was opened at the North Side Extemporaneous Speaking Tournament where George DeVaux and Sam Stuart triumphed. At Hamilton, Ohio, James Younce, Stuart, David Skory, Clifford Simon, Paul Prill, and Marjorie Mallahan won first honors in their respective divisions. In January Harry Feaser won the Springfield, Ohio, oratory contest. In February Robert Gillie, Simon and Eric Trier won first place honors in the North Side speech meet.

Sam Stuart, Jr., here receives commendations and trophies from his coach and teacher, Director Russell H. Earle, who has declared Stuart to be one of the most valuable speakers of the year.

At Wabash College Stuart won the Indiana Oratorical Contest. Later at DePauw University Simon won the state championship in oratorical declamation with Mae Ruth Vanselow as runner-up. Stuart won first in extempore speaking. At the state tournament at Indiana University Feaser was second in oratorical declaiming and Stuart was second in radio speaking. In April Robert Blossom won the district discussion contest, and forty-five speakers won the Wabash High School Invitational Tournament Trophy.

Interscholastic speaking came to a close when Central sent Deloris Putt, Simon, Stuart, and Skory to the National Speech Tournament at Lexington, Kentucky. Deloris was chosen one of the four best girl orators in radio speaking, and Skory was elected minority leader of the house and chairman of the ways and means committee.

Debating attracted many students. The question was: "Resolved: That the power of the federal govern-

In the first semester Putt won the Koerber-O'Shaughnessey Extempore Contest; Stuart, the Abbett Impromptu Contest; Skory, the Croninger Cup; Eunice Turner, the Jasper Cup. In the Reising Declamation Contest, Simon, Putt, and Younce were first in the oratorical, humorous, and dramatic divisions respectively. The victors in the Freshman-Sophomore Extempore Contest were Staley, freshman, and DeVaux, sophomore.

In the second semester Simon won the Abbett Cup; Stuart, the Koerber-O'Shaughnessey Contest; Christine Evanoff, the Croninger and Jasper Cups; Ernest Gamble and DeVaux, the Freshman-Sophomore contest. Gillie was named the most outstanding freshman and received the Hamilton-Earle Award. Varsity sweaters were won by Blossom, Simon, and Stuart. Putt and Skory won plaques for their four years of service.

IT'S THE PEAK OF STUDENT JOURNALISM

By Betty Stumpf

Opportunity is ever reaching out to publication staff members at Central. After one has achieved membership into Press Club his next goal is Quill and Scroll.

Election into a national society is an honor, but to be elected into an international society is more than an honor. Requirements for membership into Quill and Scroll include: Scholastic standing in the upper third of the class; two years on a staff if elected when a junior, or one year if elected when a senior; and a contribution of something original to the Spotlight or Caldron.

OFFICERS

Veteran Members Wilbur Philo, Evelyn Doenges, Betty Stumpf, and Chris Salomon discuss future Quill and Scroll plans at the home of Wilbur Philo.

At the start of the school year the society had only four members. An election was held at the first meeting in which each member was elected to one of the offices. Those elected were: Caldron Business Manager Betty Stumpf, president; Spotlight Editor Evelyn Doenges, vice-president; Caldron Editor Chris Salomon, secretary-treasurer; and Spotlight Business Manager Wilbur Philo, sergeant-at-arms. Mr. Cleon Fleck, adviser of the Caldron and Spotlight, is the adviser of the Society.

Meetings were held monthly at the homes of the members. Never a dull moment was spent at any meeting, with initiations and featured entertainment taking the high spots.

New members were initiated into the society in January and February. More members were admitted into the Society in May. Ellena Cox, Caldron senior editor; Arthur Day, Spotlight ad manager; and Betty Bohde, Spotlight managing editor, were the January initiates. The February initiates were: Harry Meads, Spotlight business manager; and Betty Lou Koenig, formerly Caldron writing editor.

A dinner with all the trimmings that make such parties long remembered ended the activities of the year for Quill and Scroll.

PRESS CLUB UNITES TWO PUBLICATIONS

By Billie Doswell

The two feuding Central publications, the Spotlight and the Caldron, cease fire and bury the hatchet once a month to eat, drink, and be merry at their Press Club meeting.

The Press Club, an honorary club for the most deserving journalists, is basically a union between these two publications. Its members, who are chosen for their journalistic merit, are initiated in both a formal and an informal fashion.

Arthur Day was elected president of the club at the first meeting of the year held September 20 in the usual potluck style. Mavis Bloemker was elected vice-president, and Evelyn Doenges, secretary-treasurer. Harry Meads served as president of the club during the spring semester. The other officers included Bill Middaugh, vice-president, and Bob Eastes, secretary-treasurer. Ellena Cox later succeeded Eastes as secretary-treasurer.

The highlight of the fall semester meetings was a wiener bake held at Foster Park, November 6. Those in charge of the event included Betty Patton, Bill Watterson, and Betty Lou Koenig. Miss Virginia Coverdale, a Central graduate, now of the News-Sentinel, and Mr. Chester Brower of the Journal-Gazette, gave interesting talks concerning newspaper work to the club during the year.

At the April meeting a motion picture from the Chicago Tribune was shown. It presented the progress of a Chicago Daily Tribune from the cutting of the trees for paper to printing. The large forests, the sawing mills, cartoonists at work, and the composing room were some of scenes shown.

The Press Club members enjoyed it a great deal as it presented to them all of the work that goes on before the paper, or paper material, reaches the Tribune building, and the work needed to produce a daily paper.

Major Staff...

EDITORIAL

MID-YEAR MEMBERS

THE NEW MEMBERS who were selected to be admitted into the major staff this semester are: Evelyn Faulkner, formerly reporter, now news editor; Maxine Schultz, formerly lay-out editor, now desk editor; and William Watterson, formerly ad solicitor, now advertising manager. Two more who have been added since the picture was taken are Billie Ann Doswell and Moses Slyby, personnel director and sports editor, respectively. The ones in the picture are consulting Mr. Cleon Fleck, the adviser, on changes and corrections to improve the Spotlight. These new members are very capable to fill their new positions because the major staff is chosen by the adviser on the basis of a person's usefulness to the staff, his points, and his ambition to work.

BUSINESS

THE BUSINESS staff is intently and accurately checking the expenditures, income, and all other business details of the Spotlight. They are: Wilbur Philo, formerly business manager, now ad copy editor; Arthur Day, formerly advertising manager, now office manager; Harry Meads, formerly office manager, now business manager; and William Becker, circulation. In spite of the responsibility which rests upon them and the worry that might be going on in their minds, they are still able to keep a smile on their faces and be happy about it.

MINOR STAFF

THE SPOTLIGHT

A NEW WEEK MEANS A NEW PAPER

By Marcelline Plescher

Opportunity, in its highest attainable form, is afforded those who each week provide our student body and faculty with an All-American high school newspaper. The student interested in publications is given an opportunity to gain not only professional skill but also social training. Contact between students and the faculty is perhaps the most vital issue in the making of a personality, and it is that factor that is stressed in the Spotlight work.

The Spotlight, under new leaders, began the semester with the added spark of encouragement, because the Spotlight had been admitted into the long-desired rank of All-American high school newspapers.

Staff cooperation that is between staff members and editors is greatly stressed in all the activities of the Spotlight.

The staff sponsored the annual mid-semester party under the leadership of Evelyn Faulkner and Catherine Plescher, who served as co-chairmen. At this party the new staff for the spring semester was announced by the adviser, Mr. Cleon Fleck. Two new positions—student instructor and ad artist, were inaugurated for this new semester.

Approximately 87 Centralites comprise the minor staff of the publication. Included in these positions are: collectors, ad salesmen, reporters, feature writers, sports writers, head writers, copyreaders, proofreaders, messengers, and agents. These workers are advanced to major positions on the basis of staff service, points, and ability.

The major staff composed of the editors of the various departments and the business department meets weekly, on Thursday evening to discuss the welfare of the paper and matters of importance to the entire staff. It is at these weekly conclaves that the entire plans for the forthcoming paper are discussed. Led by the editor, these discussions of current problems of the Spotlight are beneficial and aid the various departmental heads to disseminate the completed plans.

IT TAKES A YEAR TO BUILD A YEARBOOK

EDITOR

Our busy editor, Chris Salomon, transacts important business by wire during a full day. Salomon carefully planned layouts, assigned pictures, and assembled copy for the book you are reading.

By Ellena Cox

Central's annual, the Caldron, All-American since 1938, marches on with the publishing of its 28th volume, the theme of which is "Opportunity."

This year's book, as in past years, originated in the bright, cheery Caldron office which was furnished and is maintained with funds raised by the staff members, themselves. Fully equipped with desks, typewriters, files, and other necessary materials, high quality work is accomplished by the staff.

The campaign weeks were highlighted by the election of the students for their favorite presidential candidate when they subscribed to the yearbook. This was one of the most highly publicized campaigns in the history of the book, resulting in an all-time record of over 1300 subscriptions.

The Caldron is a self-supporting book financially, and receives appropriations from no one, as the staff gets the money it needs through subscription drives, the vaudeville, social events, and organization pledges.

Student photography is a striking feature of the Caldron—all pictures taken by Photographer Harold Brown, the editor, and assistants, with the exception of conventional portraits.

The social calendar of the Caldron was filled during the year with various activities for staff members. The Caldron staff celebrated its 28th birthday and its success in the campaign with a combination victory potluck and dance. At this affair salesmen were given basketball season tickets for the highest number of sales.

The Bengal Pow-Wow following the North Side-Central game was the next event, a financial as well as a social success. The theme was carried out with Tigers and Indians.

A patriotic party was held in the activities room for a general staff get-together. It was held in the form of a potluck, and was followed by a dance with music provided by Bobby Simon's Orchestra.

This happy calendar of events was brought to a pleasant close during the closing weeks of school with a picnic.

MANAGER

Betty Stumpf, industrious business manager, refers to past records during the subscription campaign. Betty set an all-time record in Caldron sales, and has successfully met financial obligations.

GRIDDERS WIN EIGHT OF TEN

HEAD COACH

Coach Murray Mendenhall completed 17 years of coaching at Central this year. During this period of time Mendenhall has developed some great teams and great players. However, his worth is recognized doubly in his ability to instil in his boys fine qualities of character, leadership, and sportsmanship. As a token of their esteem for him the lettermen who played under him during his 17 years of coaching presented him with a set of sterling silverware this year at the annual Lettermen's Banquet.

By John Trier

With eight regulars lost by graduation, Coach Murray Mendenhall and Assistant Coach Bob Dornte faced the 1940-41 football season with a tough schedule, and seventy eager grid aspirants.

Having only three varsity boys back from the undefeated, untied 1939 team, Central's two athletic coaches worked tirelessly until they had rounded out another tough Tiger football aggregation.

The Tigers opened their season with a city series game against the Irish of Central Catholic. Playing under the floodlights at South Side, the boys of Central smothered the Irish 27-0. After disposing of the Decatur Yellow Jackets, the Tigers met defeat at the hands of the eventual state champs, the North Side Redskins. After a gruelling game, the Redskins outscored the Tigers 13-6.

After conquering three more opponents, the Bengals met their second setback of the year as they were swamped by the Huntington Vikings, 20-7. New Castle and Hammond Clark were the next victims of the strong Tiger team. After the game with the Calumet district team, Coaches Mendenhall and Dornte began preparing the powerful Blue grid machine for their most important game of the year, the game against the Green Archers of South Side.

When the day finally came, eleven big Central boys lined up to face the powerful Archer team. After an exciting, rough game, the Tigers, led by Johnny Leon and Dick Tackett, smashed and drove their way through the Archers' line to hang up a 24-7 victory in their final game of the year.

Leon, F. Shaw, Sitko, Tackett, and Talley were named on the All-City team. This year the football boys elected co-captains; the boys elected to this honor were Johnny Leon, fullback, and Dick Tackett, center. Tackett was further honored by being named on the All-State team.

To Coaches Mendenhall and Dornte goes a great deal of credit for developing a great team for a successful season—a season that saw the Tigers win eight out of ten games and rate as one of the "top ten" teams of the state.

THEY MAKE YOU YELL

NO TEAM COULD go on to victory without the cheering and backing of the entire student body. Central's cheerleaders give the students a chance to back their teams with encouraging yells.

The varsity cheerleaders pictured are: First row, Bill Michell, Glenn Lewton; second row, George Rathert, Mr. Irwin Arnold, coach, and Bob Cottingham. To them goes a great deal of credit for the Tigers' good showing this year.

To qualify for varsity cheerleading, a boy must have had his training in the cheerleaders' class that Mr. Arnold conducts on each Wednesday after school. In this class the cheerleaders learn the yells and how to lead them. Experience in cheerleading is obtained in leading at the preliminary games.

Letters, only, are given to the varsity cheerleaders each year until they become seniors—when they receive both letters and sweaters.

Johnny Leon, the Tigers' hard-driving All-City fullback, is shown as he plunges six yards through the heart of the South Side line to score six more points for Central. It was the great play of Leon and Dick Tackett that led the Bengals to this 24-7 smashing victory over the Archers in the final game of the season, November 9.

CENTRAL-SHORTRIDGE

This picture shows a backfield man of the Shortridge, Indianapolis, team going for a short gain around right end. However, he was stopped quickly by Frank Roberts, number 14, Tiger end. After a gruelling battle, the Central boys came out on top, 14-0, October 18, at the North Side field. Shortridge was rated as a leading state team.

INTRAMURAL OFFERS SPORTS TO 200 BOYS

By Moses Slyby

Intramural sports in Central High School provide opportunity for 200 boys, who do not play on the varsity or reserve teams, to take part in this sports activity. The fellows really enjoy the sports in which they engage. Whenever a game is scheduled, the boys put this day on their remembering card.

ALL STAR LEAGUE

Better Players Over 120 lbs.

The Rens won the All-Star League basketball championship, with Al Black as their captain. This league was the most inconsistent of the three leagues which make up Intramural. The names that are prominent as far as scoring is concerned are John Trier, Robert Bricker, Eric Manguson, Don Freese, and Gale Wisner.

SENIOR LEAGUE

Boys over 120 lbs.

The Senior League basketball championship was won by the Shamrocks, captained by Charles Bender. The Maple Leaves took second place by defeating their opponents in the play-off. Bill Lonis, Bill Neat, Robert Miller, Junior Neff, Bill Itt, John Bottoms, and George Marks were the boys who led this league in scoring.

MIDGET LEAGUE

Boys 120 lbs. and Under

The Midget League turned out to be the best league in intramural basketball. The teams did not forfeit to each other at any time. The Trojans took the basketball championship honor with Robert Benner as their captain. High scoring honors went to Bill Eshcoff, Charles Matlock, George Pliett, Max Ramsey, and Hollis Taylor.

MIDGET LEAGUE

FAST TIGERS WIN 15 GAMES

By John Trier

The famous fast-breaking style of basketball made popular by Central's "Light Brigade" of 1936-37 was employed this year by another powerful sharp-shooting band of Central Tigers. This fast, race-horse brand of ball again proved its dominating power as the Bengals conquered 15 of their 20 opponents and reached the finals of the sectional tourney.

The Murraymen started the season out right by defeating the New Castle Trojans 42-34. Disaster then hit the Tigers and they went into a slump, losing three games in a row.

It was at this point that two seniors and a sophomore, Russ Wilkin, Dick Tackett and Bill Washington, respectively, came to the Blue's rescue and began hitting their stride to lead the Tigers on to victory. Employing a dazzling, fast break attack, the ferocious Tigers started on a nine game victory streak, which included victories over the national Catholic champs, Central Catholic, their old rival South Side, and such great teams as Huntington and Decatur Central.

As Napoleon had his Waterloo, Central also had its downfall. The North Side Redskins proved to be a little too smooth for the Tigers, and the Reds eked out a one point victory over the Blue warriors. This year's state Champs, the Washington Hatchets, then handed Central its worst defeat of the year, beating them 59-42.

With the opportunity of being coached by Murray Mendenhall, who instilled in them that famous "do or die" Central spirit, the Tigers again began to play some real ball and hit the winning streak again. Elkhart's Blue Blazers next fell victim to the Blue and White Tigers. For the second time the Tigers defeated their keen rival, South Side. The Murraymen then went on to end their season with impressive victories over Kendallville and Marion.

With a successful season ended, the Tigers prepared for the tournament season. Led by some superb playing of Russ Wilkin, the Tigers advanced to the finals of the sectional tourney, where they were defeated by an exceptionally accurate North Side team. The Blue and White played four games in the sectionals, defeating South Side 54 to 44, New Haven 49 to 25, Elmhurst 39 to 26, but losing to North Side, 40 to 31.

The Reserve squad is proud of an excellent season, winning 19 of a possible 20 games. They lost their only game by three points to South Side and then turned around to whip the Archers twice.

RESERVE SQUAD

FIRST VARSITY

CASIMIR STANSKI
Number 9

This sophomore boy saw his first action on the varsity this year. "Chuck" is a clever ball-handler and great defensive man.

RUSSELL WILKIN
Number 3

"Russ," a senior, led the city teams in scoring this year. Named on the All-Northern State team, he was voted the city's leading cage player.

DICK TACKETT
Number 5

Dick is big, aggressive, and a great rebound man. He is a senior this year and will be greatly missed next year.

EMIL SITKO
Number 6

"Monk," a junior, is a clever guard and a real ball hawk. His great playing should be very valuable next year.

FRED SHAW
Number 4

Mendy's "ace in the hole" was this stocky built senior. "Shadow" is a hard fighter and good all-around man.

BILL WASHINGTON
Number 11

One-handed, left-handed shots are the favorites of this colored sophomore. Bill was the second highest scorer of the team.

Central: 3, Russ Wilkin; 4, Fred Shaw; 5, Dick Tackett. Central won the game 32-31 on some great playing by Wilkin in cooperation with teammates. Date: January 17.

Central Battles North

The Tigers met defeat at the hands of the North Side Redskins, 42-41. In this action picture, above, the Redskins are: 99, Bob Young; 97, Jim Harrison; 87, Bill Ranly; jumping, Bob Cowan. The Tigers are: 88, Jim Miller; also jumping, Bill Washington; under the basket, Don Rice. Date: January 24.

Tackett Takes Tip

The second South Side game proved to be easier for the Tigers. The Blue and White swept the Green off their feet with a 36-31 victory. Here is a jump ball between Dick Tackett of Central and Bob Hines of South Side. Bill Washington, Tiger forward, is in the background, ready for action. Date: February 8.

SECOND VARSITY

DUANE KOCH
Number 10

Koch is a fast defensive man. A senior, he will not see action next year. He is a clever ball handler.

DON RICE
Number 14

Don has done some fine playing this year and next year will be counted on greatly. He is a junior.

HAROLD JAMESON
Number 12, Shooting

Red, a senior, was a clever ball handler and good guard. He did his best job in holding Bob Cowan, North's star, to eight points.

JIM MILLER
Number 8

This junior center was out most of the season with injuries. His height, 6' 3", will come in mighty handy next year.

BOB VAN RYN
Number 7, Middle

Bob was the long shot artist of the team. His sharp shooting ability has greatly helped the Tigers. He has two more years.

TOM BARFELL
Number 13

Tom is a good all-around man. He specializes on high-arched side shots. Next year's success will depend a great deal on him.

The CENTRAL Tiger tracksters scored quite well against their scheduled competitors, numbering eight this season.

The veterans who carried a great deal of the burden this season are Emil Sitko, Ralph Holman, Robert Kughler, Roy Lattimore, Duane Koch, Robert Lew, Otto Turpchinoff, John Leon, and Roger Zwayer.

The trackmen defeated Columbia City, 91 to 21, taking ten out of a possible eleven events.

TENNIS

THE CENTRAL varsity tennis team encountered a ten-game schedule, announced by Mr. Charles Turpin, tennis coach.

The racket wielders who carry the fighting spirit to the courts are Steve Thomas, Richard Ladig, Arnold Krauskopf, Leonard Krauskopf, Armond Martin, Robert Blossom, Edwin Lindenberg, and Ronald Brackmann.

Those on last year's team are Thomas, Martin, and Lindenberg. Each one of Central's opponents is scheduled to play the Tigers twice. Decatur was their first foe, while their last opponent was South Side.

GOLF

TEEING OFF against the Irish of Central Catholic, the Central golf team started their season at Foster Park this year.

The boys practice every night after school when the weather is suitable. This year's team played fair golf this season.

The golf team consists of Wayne Buchan, Kenneth Buchan, Jim Taylor, John Ray, Richard McCorkle, and John McCorkle. The team dropped their initial game.

Mr. Louis R. Craney, coach, won first place in the coaches' golf championship competition of Northern Indiana this spring.

Our Girls Like . . .

SPORTS of ALL SORTS

By Betty Mathews

The Central Girls Athletic Association, with the largest active membership of any club in school, has just completed another successful year.

Of the many meetings in which the girls had loads of fun, the Christmas and Hallowe'en parties, Play Day, the dance, the exhibition, and the banquet were the most outstanding.

The largest event was Play Day for which the Central girls were host to the North Side and South Side Athletic Associations. All kinds of games were played in both gyms and in the activities room; then the girls went to the cafeteria where they ate and danced. The affair was a potluck, and there was much good food to spare.

Next of the big events was the annual dance which was held February 8, in the cafeteria, following the South Side game. Eleanor Luttman and her committee put the "Boogie Swing" over for a very large crowd.

May 2 was the date of the exhibition, in which many girls had a chance to show their talents. Madeline Rodman, Leonteen Rodman, and Delores Treuchet were among the outstanding dancers.

When May 28 came it brought the whole club together for the last time at the annual banquet. The trophy winners and the new officers were announced. Lillian Kesler, chairman of the banquet, and her committee were responsible for the fun had there. The new officers will be given the opportunity to show what they can do to lead the club to further success.

The three senior girls having the highest number of points received sweaters on Recognition Day. Each girl received a stripe for every sport in which she made first team for four years.

The officers who headed the club for 1940-41 were: president, Betty Mathews; vice-president, Mary Ann Mohr; treasurer, Wanda Lipp; secretary, Donna Burton; point recorder, Betty Huffman; and advisers, Miss Meribah Ingham and Miss Emma Adams.

The club installed a new system of handling towels. They bought a washing machine, towels, and other necessary equipment. By the new system all the girls were given a clean towel every time they showered. Miss Ingham was responsible for this very beneficial system.

FRESHMEN BEAT THEIR BIG SISTERS

By Mary Ann Mohr and Betty Mathews

Over 150 girls seized the opportunity to participate in basketball this year. Out of that number 64 were chosen to represent their respective teams in the tournament. The Koerber Cup, awarded annually, went to the freshman team, who won the basketball tourney this year in January. The seniors, trailing close behind with one loss, gained second place, while the juniors and sophomores tied for third place. Since all teams were very evenly matched, the competition was really great. Even Miss Adams and Miss Ingham, coaches, could not predict the outcome of the tourney.

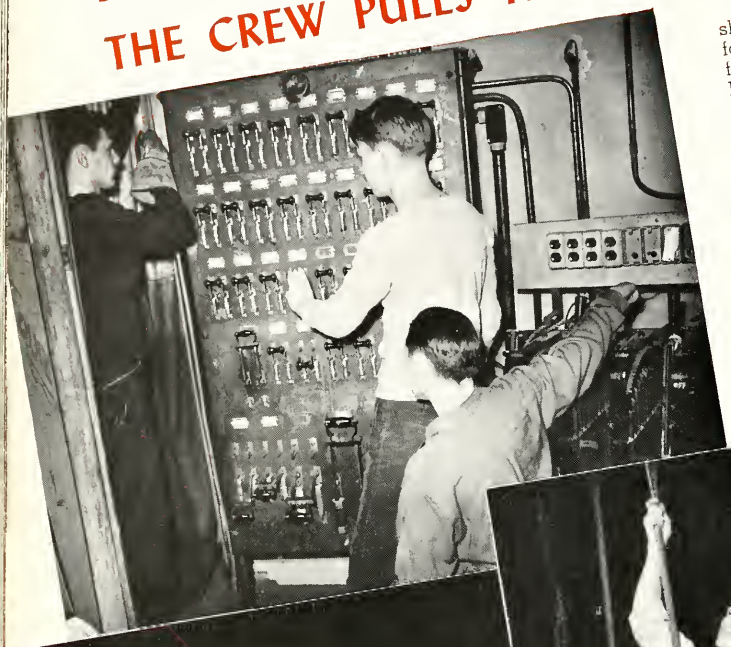
THE CREW PULLS THE CURTAIN



With these boys behind the scenes, the show can go on. The beautiful lighting for all the performances is controlled from the switch-board. At the board are Bill Bailey, senior stage manager, Dean Burt, chief electrician, and Bill Michell, sophomore member of the stage crew.

The curtain drops, important factors in any production, are the foundation of the scenery; and what would a play be without scenery? Here we see the drops being "tied off" by Bob Cottingham, Jim Younce, Michell and Bailey.

The last few moments before the curtain rises are the most exciting. In one final feverish attempt to complete the stage before the play, Kenny Ahlersmeyer and Michell are working away at a spotlight fixture. Look desperate, don't they?

EDDIE IS "ALMOST EIGHTEEN"

By Clifford Simon

"Almost Eighteen" was one of the most entertaining and outstanding senior plays ever presented at Central High School, November 15-16, 1940. It was a comedy-drama featuring the troubles of Eddie, a 17-year-old boy: mainly his girl, his crooning, an essay contest, an uncle and a misunderstanding family. The cast is shown on this page.

ONE ACT PLAYS INVOKE THE SPIRITUAL

By Clifford Simon

The annual Christmas Plays, under the direction of Miss Margery Suter, upheld the holiday spirit of 1941 on December 17. Two very impressive and utterly beautiful plays, "Beau of Bath" and "Faith and Works," were presented to the student body. "Beau of Bath," starring Betty Warner and Bob Cottingham, was a luxuriously beautiful drama about the dream of the old man Beau Nash, who had once been the center of society's attraction. The other, a simple yet impressive story about the Christmas spirit in the wilderness of the Midwest about 1790, featured Mae Ruth Vanselow and Alan Temple.

Top right: Alan Temple, a young minister, is speaking with his young wife, Mae Ruth Vanselow, and their small daughter, Joy Beare, about the Christmas holiday.

NO END OF TALENT IN VAUDEVILLE

By Clifford Simon

"Our Hit Parade," judged by a great many as the best Senior-Caldron Vaudeville Central High has ever presented, was staged January 31. Besides being one of the best to be presented, it was undoubtedly the largest performance, offering a total of 17 acts and a grand finale. Under the direction of Miss Helen E. Hilgemann and Mr. Ralph O. Virts the following acts were presented: "Drummer Boy," "Stardust," "Sometimes I Wonder," "Tumbleweeds," "Cowboy Sweethearts," "Jumpin' Jivers," "What's New," "Shoe Shine Boy," "Goofus," "Farmer in the Dell," "Practice Makes Perfect," "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," "Alice Blue Gown," "Melancholy Baby," "Man on the Flying Trapeze," "Scatterbrains," "Yesterthoughts," and "Les Patineurs." On this page are scenes from the numerous acts presented in the 1941 vaudeville.

Upper left: Mildred Van Horn, the "Melancholy Baby" who sang popular songs for the audience, is shown talking to the master of ceremonies, Alan Temple.

Lower left: We couldn't do without our drummers who beat out all of the fast numbers for the dancers. They are Betty Blauvelt, Dorothy Schust, Jean Burtnett, and Katherine DeHaven.

ALUMNI

STUDENTS

CHARLES J. ROTHSCHILD, JR.

Class of 1939. University of Michigan, majoring in literature.

"My four years at Central were probably four of the most happy and enjoyable years that I could ever hope to have."

EDWARD O'ROURKE, III

Class of 1938. Kenyon College, majoring in political science.

"Through my association with the Caldron for two years, I was given an insight to business which I would not have had otherwise."

ATHLETES

PAUL ARMSTRONG

Class of 1937. Indiana University, majoring in physical education, member of team that won National Collegiate Championship.

"My basketball experience at Central enabled me to obtain a scholarship, and also provided me with the training to gain the Varsity Squad at college in my sophomore year."

HERMAN SCHAEFER

Class of 1937. Indiana University, majoring in physical education, member of team that won National Collegiate Championship.

"Murray and Bob Dornte helped to develop me in high school, and it was through this basketball experience that I gained a scholarship."

DRAFTSMAN

GAYLORD F. LESLIE

Class of 1932. Tri-State College, B. S. degree. Mechanical engineer at Bass Foundry.

"Although I received training at Central that has greatly benefited me, the outstanding thing in my memory is the Central spirit, which to me means loyalty and service."

AUDITOR

F. HOWARD CRONINGER, JR.

Class of 1931. Dartmouth College. Auditor at General Electric Company in Schenectady.

"To me the greatest opportunity Central offered was participation in democracy in action. The privileges and responsibilities of private initiative under competent supervision, contributed to the best in each individual to the extent of his abilities."

ATTORNEY

SAMUEL D. JACKSON

Class of 1914. Indiana University, LL.B. degree. Attorney at Law in Lincoln Bank Tower.

"The deep interest of the Central faculty and their downright ability as teachers gave me vision and enthusiasm for which I shall ever be their debtor."

DEAN

VICTORIA GROSS

Class of 1918. Indiana University, A. B. degree; University of Michigan, A. M. degree. Dean of Girls at North Side High School.

"To think more clearly, to feel more deeply, to plan more wisely, to work more earnestly—these are some of the opportunities I found at Central High School."

ENGINEER

J. H. STAAK

Class of 1913. Purdue University, 1918, B.S.E.E. degree. Commercial Engineer, Fractional H. P. Motor Division, General Electric Company.

"Industry today, even more than before, requires trained men in every vocation. The high school provides the fundamentals upon which we build to prepare such men for their responsibilities."

JURIST

JUDGE WILLIAM H. SCHANNEN

Class of 1905. Indiana University, A. B. and LL.B. degrees in 1912, 1913. Office in Standard Building.

"One of the finest things I learned while a student at Central High School was the power to concentrate and to think clearly. To succeed in any walk of life, one must be able to apply his abilities to the task at hand."

DENTIST

DR. HERBERT P. WERKMAN

Class of 1919. Indiana University, D. D. S. Professor of Dentistry, Administrator of Oral Surgery Division, Head of Oral Anatomy Division at Indiana University.

"The administration and faculty of Central High School can be justifiably proud of its long fine record in training students in secondary education."

FOREMAN

HARRY BEERMAN

Class of 1905. International Business College. General foreman at Joslyn Manufacturing and Supply Company.

"Before my entrance into Central High School, I was more or less undecided and unsettled in my ideas of the future. It was at Central that I learned to settle down and concentrate on one purpose."

POSTMASTER

COL. CLYDE F. DREISBACH

Class of 1897. University of Indiana A.B. degree. Postmaster, Fort Wayne. Lieutenant Colonel, A. E. F., World War.

"I learned that no matter how tough the going, determination, persistency, and attention to the problem at hand would overcome any obstacle."

DOCTORS

DR. CARL G. MILLER

Class of 1921. University of Michigan, M.D. degree. Interned at Lutheran Hospital, 1927-28. Office in Wayne Pharmacal Building.

"I feel that one of the greatest benefits to be derived from high school training is learning how to study."

DR. DONALD S. LADIG

Class of 1932. Indiana University, B.S. and M.D. degrees. Interned at Providence Hospital, Detroit, 1938-39, Lutheran Hospital, 1939-40. Office at Wayne Pharmacal Building.
